I, Jared R. Smith, declare:

- I am an attorney of law admitted to practice before this Court and make this declaration in support of Defendants' Oppositions to Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment on Willful and Innocent Infringement and Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment on Defendants Affirmative Defenses of Fair Use and Failure to Mitigate. All statements made herein are on personal knowledge unless otherwise stated. If called as a witness, I could competently testify as to the matters stated herein.
- During the first phase of this case, Defendants propounded requests for production of documents seeking information concerning all the works Plaintiffs claimed in this action. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of Defendants' Request for Production of Documents, Set 2 (Requests nos. 83-94), which Defendants served on May 18, 2007.
- 3. On June 18, 2007, Plaintiffs objected to each of Defendants' Requests nos. 83-89 and 91-94 on the basis that "[p]roof of ownership and direct infringement of the thousands of works infringed by defendants therefore will not be at issue until after a finding of liability, and thus individualized discovery to challenge ownership of each work is inappropriate at this stage." Attached hereto as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of Plaintiffs' Responses to Defendants' Request for Production of Documents, Set 2.
- In responding to Defendants' Second Set of Requests for Production of 4. Documents, Plaintiffs refused to produce documents concerning any of their works other than the forty-four listed in Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.
- 5. During the first phase of this case, Defendants also propounded interrogatories seeking information concerning the works Plaintiffs claimed were illegally copied. Attached hereto as Exhibit C is a true and correct copy of Defendants' Interrogatories, Set 1 (Interrogatories nos. 1-9), which Defendants served on May 18, 2007.

6. On June 18, 2007, Plaintiffs objected to each of Defendants' Interrogatories nos. 1, 4-6, and 9, on the basis that discovery at that time was "limited to the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint." Attached hereto as Exhibit D is a true and correct copy of Plaintiffs' Responses to Defendants' Interrogatories set one. Those Interrogatories sought information about the works Plaintiffs claimed had been infringed (Interrogatory No. 1); the amount of monetary or statutory damages Plaintiffs alleged and the basis for their computation (Interrogatory No. 4); identification of dot-torrent files and eDonkey hash links implicated in any alleged infringements (Interrogatories Nos. 5 and 6); and facts supporting any claim that Defendants had knowledge of infringements (Interrogatory No. 9).

- 7. The only information Plaintiffs agreed to provide in response to Defendants' Interrogatories during the first phase of this litigation was "copies of documents relating to the copyright ownership of the representative list of works in the First Amended Complaint." Plaintiffs refused to provide information concerning any of their works other than the forty-four listed in Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.
- 8. Attached hereto as Exhibit E is a true and correct copy of the transcript from the July 1, 2013 scheduling conference in this action.
- 9. Attached hereto as Exhibit F is a true and correct copy of Plaintiffs' Ex Parte Application For Protective Order Re Rule 30(b)(6) Depositions, dated August 1, 2007.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California and the United States that the foregoing statements are true and correct.

Executed in Londonderry, New Hampshire on September 6, 2013.

REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS, SET TWO

Columbia Pictures, et al. v. Fung, et al. U.S. Dist. Ct., Central Dist Cal., No. CV 06-5578 SVW (JCx)

The production of documents shall be made at the Rothken Law Firm LLP, 3 Hamilton Landing, Suite 280, Novato, CA 94949, within thirty (30) days of service.

DEFINITIONS

- 1. The terms "you" "your," AND "RESPONDENT" refer to the respective plaintiff responding to these requests and where applicable in this context, plaintiff's corporate affiliates, predecessors, predecessors of corporate affiliates, representatives, agents, servants, counsel, employees, consultants, and persons authorized to act, acting, or purporting to act on its behalf.
- 2. The term "defendants" refer to the defendants herein, both collectively and each of them, individually.
  - 3. The term "MPAA" refers to the Motion Picture Association of America.
- 4. The term "Defendant's Websites" means the websites, web pages, search engines, trackers, and services, alleged to be under the control or supervision of propounding party or Isohunt Web Technologies, Inc. including, but not limited to, isohunt.com, ed2k-it.com, BTHub, and torrentbox.com, including all content, databases, files, web pages, and software that comprise the site and support, enable, and provide its full range of features and functions, including to users and administrators, and all server hardware on which said content, databases, files, web pages, and software reside.
- 5. The present tense shall be construed to include the past tense and the past tense shall be construed to include the present tense as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these document requests.
- 6. The singular shall be construed to include the plural and the plural shall be construed to include the singular as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these document requests.
- 7. "And" and "or" have both conjunctive and disjunctive meanings as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these document request.

- 8. "Any" and "all" shall mean "each and every."
- 9. "Communication(s)" means the transmittal of information by any means and includes communication of any kind, whether written, oral, electronic or other.
- 10. The terms "concerning" and "related to" mean, without limitation, referring to, describing, evidencing, constituting, summarizing, analyzing, studying, discussing, relating to, and resulting from, and should be construed broadly as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these document requests.
- "Documents" includes every writing, recording, or record in any form, 11. whether handwritten, printed, typed, taped, or in any other graphic, digital, magnetic, optical, or mechanical form, however produced, reproduced, or recorded, and should be construed to be synonymous in meaning and scope to the usage of this term in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 34(a). The term includes, without limitation, all memoranda, reports, data, correspondence, phone messages, diaries, logs, notes, bills, invoices, checks, receipts, and e-mail messages, including those within the personal or private possession, custody, or control of RESPONDENT, including any RESPONDENT'S officer, director, employee, agent, or individual, as specified in the definition of "RESPONDENT" above. The term also includes, without limitation, any data compilations from which information can be obtained, and if necessary, translated into usable form through the use of any machine, device, or equipment, whether or not sent, received, or otherwise transmitted. The term also includes, with limitation, every draft of a document, and any copy that is not identical in each and every respect to the original or another copy.
- 12. The term "including" shall be construed to mean "including without limitation."
- 13. To the extent documents are maintained in electronic formats, this request calls for production in electronic format. Documents maintained in electronic formats should be produced in their native formats as they currently exist on your storage media and devices.

- 14. Source code should be produced in regular tool readable format and include all ancillary files such as project files, makefiles, header files, and third party library code (whether in source or compiled form) necessary to build working versions of the full applications.
- 15. If any of the documents requested herein has been lost or destroyed: (a) provide a written statement, in lieu of each such lost or destroyed document, that describes in detail the nature of the document and its contents, identifies the author and recipient(s) of the document, specifies the date on which the document was prepared or transmitted or both, and if possible specifies the date on which the document was lost or destroyed, the reasons for loss or destruction, and the individuals with knowledge of such loss or destruction; and (b) provide any documents existing at the time of such loss or destruction setting forth or reflecting any policy or procedure then in effect for destruction or retention of documents.
- 16. Documents sought in this request include documents currently or previously within the knowledge, possession, or control of Defendants, as well as those documents which come into the possession of Defendants subsequent to service hereof. Each of the following document requests is continuing in nature and Plaintiffs hereby request that if you obtain any additional responsive documents at any later date, you promptly so inform Plaintiffs and produce those documents.
- 17. If any document is not produced on the basis of a claim of privilege or for any other reason, identify the document with particularity, including without limitation the author(s), any recipient(s), any other individual or entity to whom the document has been shown or transmitted, any other individual or entity with whom the document has been discussed, the number of pages, attachments, and appendices, the date of the document, a description of the subject matter sufficient to form the basis of a claimed privilege and to uniquely identify the document, and a short statement of the nature of the claimed privilege or reason for withholding production.

For each individual or entity identified in conjunction with a claim of privilege, provide information relating to the relationship between Defendant(s) and the individual and entity.

- 18. If a document is in the possession of a person or entity other than one over whom you have no control, (a) set forth whether and when the document was in your possession or otherwise how you became aware of the document; (b) set forth the reason(s) why the document is no longer in your possession; and (c) identify the individual or entity which is presently in possession of the document.
- 19. You are required to provide separate responses to all of the following document requests.
- 20. When any request calls for the production of any portion of any document, the entire document containing any such portion must be produced.
- 21. Unless otherwise specified, this document request seeks documents prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted on or after January 1, 2000.

SET OF REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION

OF DOCUMENTS

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 34, plaintiffs Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc., Disney Enterprises, Inc., Paramount Pictures Corporation, TriStar Pictures, Inc., Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation, Universal City Studios LLLP, Universal City Studios Productions LLLP, and Warner Bros. Entertainment Inc. ("plaintiffs") hereby respond to defendants' Request for Production of Documents, Set 2 (the "Second Requests"):

SPECIFIC OBJECTIONS TO DEFINITIONS

- 1. Plaintiffs object to the definitions of "you," "your," "responding party," and "RESPONDENT" as overbroad, not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, and unduly burdensome. For the purposes of this Second Request, plaintiffs will produce documents, to the extent applicable, in the possession of each plaintiff in suit and/or, as appropriate, in the possession of related persons or entities that reasonably may possess responsive information.
- 2. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they are not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they seek the production by the plaintiffs of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs will produce all non-privileged responsive documents created on or after January 1, 2002, through the commencement of this litigation.
- 3. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they call for every identical copy of each document, on the grounds that the request is overly broad and unduly burdensome.

 4. Plaintiffs object to the terms "any" and "all" with respect to certain of the document requests. Plaintiffs undertake to provide such information as they are able to locate after reasonable and diligent investigation. By answering, plaintiffs do not certify that "any" or "all" items of responsive information have been obtained and reserve the right to supplement their answers as more information becomes available.

Plaintiffs incorporate these Specific Objections to Definitions into each specific response as if fully set forth in each response.

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

- 1. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests on the grounds that they are harassing, oppressive, overbroad, and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs further object to the Second Requests because the burdens imposed by responding to the Second Requests far outweigh any potential value of responding to the Second Requests.
- 2. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they call for the disclosure of information subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine. Any inadvertent disclosure of such information shall not be deemed a waiver of the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the attorney work product immunity doctrine, or any other applicable privilege or doctrine.
- 3. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they call for the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B). Any inadvertent disclosure of such information shall not be deemed a waiver of the protection against the Second Requests afforded by Rule 26(b)(4)(B) or any other applicable privilege or doctrine.

20 21

- 4. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they call for the disclosure of information beyond that required by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or the Local Rules of the Court.
- Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they call for 5. documents created or maintained by defendants, for documents already in defendants' possession, or for information readily accessible to defendants in the public record, on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome, oppressive, and harassing, and would needlessly increase the cost of litigation.
- Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent they seek 6. unavailable information or information not currently in plaintiffs' possession, custody or control.
- Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they seek 7. information constituting trade secrets or other financial, technical, research, development, strategic, or commercial information.
- Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they seek discovery concerning the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that proceedings on remedial issues such as these will be deferred until after summary judgment proceedings on the core issue of defendants' secondary liability.
- Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they seek 9. discovery concerning Affirmative Defenses numbered 5, 10-15, 17, 23-27, 30-36, 38 and 39 in Defendants' Answer to Plaintiffs' First Amended Complaint ("Answer") which are frivolous and lacking in evidentiary support or contrary to the law. On June 13, 2007, Plaintiffs served Defendants with a Motion For Sanctions Under Rule 11 Fed.R.Civ.P. for Filing of Frivolous Affirmative Defenses ("Rule 11 Motion") asking the Court to strike Affirmative Defenses numbered 5, 10-15, 17, 23-27, 30-36, 38 and 39 from defendants' Answer.

- 10. Plaintiffs object to the Second Requests to the extent that they are not consecutively numbered, in violation of the Local Rules of the Central District of California.
- 11. By agreeing to search for or produce documents responsive to any particular request, plaintiffs do not represent that such documents exist.

Plaintiffs incorporate these General Objections into each specific response as if fully set forth in each response.

RESPONSES

83. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to actions or omissions taken by you to follow statutory procedures for registration of the copyrights of any of the alleged copyrighted material that is the subject of your complaint.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Proof of ownership and direct infringement of the thousands of works infringed by defendants therefore will not be at issue until after a finding of liability, and thus individualized discovery to challenge ownership of each work is inappropriate at this stage. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 30 in defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 30, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this case. Plaintiffs further object to this Request as vague and ambiguous in that it seeks documents about unspecified "omissions." Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs will produce copies of responsive documents relating to the copyright ownership of the illustrative set of infringing works attached as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.

84. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to any written agreements between plaintiffs and any other party to acquire the subject copyrights.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Proof of ownership and direct infringement of the thousands of works infringed by defendants therefore will not be at issue until after a finding of liability, and thus individualized discovery to challenge ownership of each work is inappropriate at this stage. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Case 2:06-cv-05578-SVW-JC Document 585 Filed 09/06/13 Page 21 of 125 Page ID #:5758

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 31 in defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 31, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this case. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production by plaintiffs of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs will produce copies of responsive documents relating to the copyright ownership of the illustrative set of infringing works attached as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.

85. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to any disclosure of previous registrations of some or all of the subject works.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Proof of ownership and direct infringement of the thousands of works infringed by defendants therefore will not be at issue until after a finding of liability, and thus individualized discovery to challenge ownership of each work is inappropriate at this stage. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 33 in Defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 33, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this case. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production by plaintiffs of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs will produce copies of responsive documents relating to the copyright ownership of the illustrative set of infringing works attached as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.

86. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to actions or omissions taken by you to follow statutory procedures for registration of the copyrights of any of the alleged copyrighted material that is the subject of your complaint.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request because it duplicates Request No. 83. Plaintiffs reiterate their objections to this Request as follows:

Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 30 in defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 30, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this case. Plaintiffs further object to this Request as vague and ambiguous in that it seeks documents about unspecified "omissions." Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs will produce copies of responsive documents relating to the copyright ownership of the illustrative set of infringing works attached as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.

87. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to any actions or omissions taken by you to disclaim pre-existing material in the subject works.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 34 in Defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 34, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this case. Plaintiffs further object to this Request as vague and ambiguous in that it seeks documents about unspecified "omissions." Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production by plaintiffs of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs will produce copies of responsive documents relating to the copyright ownership of the Complaint.

88. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to the authority and knowledge of the signatory to the copyright registrations of the subject works to perform such acts.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 35 in Defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 35, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production by plaintiffs of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs will produce copies of responsive documents relating to the copyright ownership of the illustrative set of infringing works attached as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint.

89. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to all editions of the subject works that were available to submit to the U.S. Copyright Office including, without limitation, the actual edition submitted.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery relating to the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that the parties' initial discovery should be limited to the core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request as overbroad and unduly burdensome to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning Affirmative Defense No. 32 in Defendants' Answer. On June 13, 2007, plaintiffs served defendants with the Rule 11 Motion, which, among others, seeks to strike Affirmative Defense No. 32, from defendants' Answer as frivolous, and either having no evidentiary support or as not warranted by law, or both. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objection.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request as overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing, and seeking information not relevant to the claims and defenses at issue in this case. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing objections.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection and Specific Objection to Definitions as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs specifically object to this Request on the grounds that it lacks foundation, is vague and ambiguous in failing to define the terms "requirements" and "comply", and as vague and ambiguous in that it seeks documents about unspecified "omissions". Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it seeks documents between plaintiffs and third parties on the grounds that it is overbroad, unduly burdensome, harassing and does not seek evidence relevant to the claims and defenses in this case. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing general and specific objections.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent responsive documents are already in defendants' possession on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome, oppressive, and harassing, and would needlessly increase the cost of litigation. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents on the basis of the foregoing specific objection.

Plaintiffs further specifically object to this Request to the extent that it calls for materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B), and plaintiffs decline to produce such documents.

Plaintiffs further object to this Request to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to this Request to the extent that it seeks the production by plaintiffs of documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome. Plaintiffs decline to produce documents created before January 1, 2002, or after the commencement of this litigation.

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the general and specific objections and express limitations on production as set forth above, plaintiffs respond that they have produced responsive, non-privileged documents on February 23, 2007 and will produce any additional responsive, non-privileged documents not subject to the foregoing objections that have been located after a reasonable search, and that are not already in defendants' possession.

91. Produce all documents concerning, evidencing or otherwise relating to any actions or omissions taken by you to grant any license to any party to use the subject works.

DEFINITIONS

- 1. The terms "you" "your," AND "RESPONDENT" refer to the respective plaintiff responding to these requests and where applicable in this context, plaintiff's corporate affiliates, predecessors, predecessors of corporate affiliates, representatives, agents, servants, counsel, employees, consultants, and persons authorized to act, acting, or purporting to act on its behalf.
- 2. The term "defendants" refer to the defendants herein, both collectively and each of them, individually.
  - 3. The term "MPAA" refers to the Motion Picture Association of America.
- 4. The term "Defendant's Websites" means the websites, web pages, search engines, trackers, and services, alleged to be under the control or supervision of propounding party or Isohunt Web Technologies, Inc. including, but not limited to, isohunt.com, ed2k-it.com, BTHub, and torrentbox.com, including all content, databases, files, web pages, and software that comprise the site and support, enable, and provide its full range of features and functions, including to users and administrators, and all server hardware on which said content, databases, files, web pages, and software reside.
- 5. The present tense shall be construed to include the past tense and the past tense shall be construed to include the present tense as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these document requests.
- 6. The singular shall be construed to include the plural and the plural shall be construed to include the singular as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these interrogatories.
- 7. "And" and "or" have both conjunctive and disjunctive meanings as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these interrogatories.
  - 8. "Any" and "all" shall mean "each and every."
  - 9. "Communication(s)" means the transmittal of information by any means

- 10. The terms "concerning" and "related to" mean, without limitation, referring to, describing, evidencing, constituting, summarizing, analyzing, studying, discussing, relating to, and resulting from, and should be construed broadly as required by the context to elicit all information discoverable within the broadest scope of these interrogatories.
- 11. "Documents" includes every writing, recording, or record in any form, whether handwritten, printed, typed, taped, or in any other graphic, digital, magnetic, optical, or mechanical form, however produced, reproduced, or recorded, and should be construed to be synonymous in meaning and scope to the usage of this term in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 34(a). The term includes, without limitation, all memoranda, reports, data, correspondence, phone messages, diaries, logs, notes, bills, invoices, checks, receipts, and e-mail messages, including those within the personal or private possession, custody, or control of RESPONDENT, including any RESPONDENT'S officer, director, employee, agent, or individual, as specified in the definition of "RESPONDENT" above. The term also includes, without limitation, any data compilations from which information can be obtained, and if necessary, translated into usable form through the use of any machine, device, or equipment, whether or not sent, received, or otherwise transmitted. The term also includes, with limitation, every draft of a document, and any copy that is not identical in each and every respect to the original or another copy.
- 12. The term "including" shall be construed to mean "including without limitation."
- 13. Each of the following interrogatories is continuing in nature and Propounding Party hereby request that if you obtain any additional responsive information or documents at any later date, you promptly so inform Propounding Party and submit supplemental or amended answers and documents.
  - 14. Any interrogatory relating to any communications or meetings with a corporation, partnership, or other business or governmental entity shall include any communications or meetings with its officers, directors, controlling shareholders, employees, representatives, agents, and attorneys acting on the entity's behalf.

- 15. If you believe that any of the following interrogatories calls for assertions of a claim of privilege, answer so much of the interrogatory as is not objected to, and set forth with respect to each specific item of information as to which a claim of privilege is asserted the nature of the privilege asserted (e.g. attorney-client, work product, etc.) and the basis for your claim. For each item of information as to which you claim privilege, provide a privilege log.
- 16. If for reasons other than a claim of privilege, you refuse to answer any interrogatory, state the grounds upon which the refusal is based with sufficient specificity to permit a determination of the propriety of such refusal.
- 17. If you are unable to answer in interrogatory in full or in part, you should answer it to the extent possible, and state an explanation as to why the remainder cannot be answered and a statement as to the nature of the information or knowledge that cannot be furnished. If you know the name of an individual or entity possessing any or all of the information sought by the interrogatory that you cannot furnish, disclose the name and address of such individual or entity and the nature of the information possessed by such individual or entity.
- 18. Whenever you are instructed to state a date, a dollar amount, number, or quantification, if such date, dollar amount, number, or quantification is unknown to you, state your best estimate, indicate that the response is an estimate, and explain why you are unable to provide a more precise response.
- 19. Whenever you are instructed to "identify" a specific individual, please indicate: (a) the full name of the individual; (b) the current address and phone number of the individual, or, if that is not known, the most recent address and phone number of which you are aware and any other address and phone number at which you are aware that the individual may be contacted; and (c) a short description of the individual's relationship to you, including the individual's employment position or title if that individual is or has been employed by you.

- 20. When the identity or description of an oral communication is requested, please indicate: (a) the means of communication (i.e., telephonic, in-person); (b) the date or dates of the conversation; (c) the location(s) at which the conversation took place; (d) the identity of each person participating in the conversation or witnessing the conversation; (e) the substance of the conversation.
- 21. When the identity or description of a document is requested, please indicate: (a) the type of document, such as a letter, memorandum, e-mail message, etc.; (b) the title, if any, of the document; (c) the date of the document; (d) the identity of the individual who authored the document; (e) the identity of individuals to whom the document is addressed; (f) the identities of all recipients of copies of the documents; and (g) whether you are in possession of the original or a copy of the document.
- 22. If any of the documents requested has been lost or destroyed: (a) provide a written statement, in lieu of each such lost or destroyed document, identifying each document as described above, and in addition specify the date on which the document was lost or destroyed, the reasons for loss or destruction, and the individuals with knowledge of such loss or destruction; and (b) provide any documents existing at the time of such loss or destruction setting forth or reflecting any policy or procedure then in effect for destruction or retention of documents.
- 23. You are required to provide separate responses to all of the following interrogatories.

- hash value, the dates and times that such copies were made and by whom with their contact information, where the copies were made, the web sites or URL that provided such copies, and the copyright owner(s) of the work/song.
- 2. State all the reasons the responding party has not used the DMCA take down services located on Defendant's Websites to remove torrent files that the responding party believes were/are infringing RESPONDENT's copyrights.
- 3. Identify all facts that support your contention that defendants are liable for secondary copyright infringement.
- 4. State the amount of monetary damages, statutory or otherwise, you believe you are entitled to and describe with specificity how such amounts are calculated.
- 5. Identify each torrent file ever located on Defendant's Websites or linked to by Defendant's Websites that RESPONDENT believes is secondarily infringing its Copyrights by complete torrent file name, the identity of RESPONDENT'S copyrighted work including name of the work and hash value of the file containing the copyrighted work, and date(s) of appearance on Defendant's Websites.
- 6. Identify each eDonkey hash link ever located on Defendant's Websites or linked to by Defendant's Websites that RESPONDENT believes is secondarily infringing its Copyrights by complete eDonkey hash link name, hash value, the identity of RESPONDENT'S copyrighted work, and date(s) of appearance on Defendant's Websites.
- 7. State the name, address, telephone number, email address, and relationship to you of each person who has knowledge of the facts supporting your response to each interrogatory.
- 8. Describe any and all documents, including, but not limited to, Bates Stamp number if produced in discovery in this action, that refer or relate to your responses to each interrogatory or upon which you relied in responding to such interrogatories.

EXHIBIT D

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 33, Plaintiffs Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc., Disney Enterprises, Inc., Paramount Pictures Corporation, TriStar Pictures, Inc., Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation, Universal City Studios LLLP, Universal City Studios Productions LLLP, and Warner Bros Entertainment Inc. ("Plaintiffs") hereby respond to Defendants' First Set of Interrogatories (the "Discovery"):

OBJECTIONS

- 1. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it calls for the disclosure of information subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine. Any inadvertent disclosure of such information shall not be deemed a waiver of the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the attorney work product immunity doctrine, or any other applicable privilege or doctrine.
- 2. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it calls for the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B). Any inadvertent disclosure of such information shall not be deemed a waiver of the protection against discovery afforded by Rule 26(b)(4)(B) or any other applicable privilege or doctrine.
- 3. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it calls for the disclosure of information beyond that required by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or the Local Rules of the Court.
- 4. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, and is ambiguous, duplicative, vague, oppressive, harassing, overbroad or unduly burdensome.

- 5. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it calls for information in documents created or maintained by Defendants, for information already in Defendants' possession, or for information readily accessible to Defendants in the public record, on the grounds that it is unduly burdensome, oppressive, and harassing, and would needlessly increase the cost of litigation.
- 6. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it is not limited to time periods reasonably related to the matters at issue in this litigation. Specifically, plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it seeks information in documents or materials prepared, generated, duplicated, communicated, distributed or transmitted either prior to January 1, 2002, as overbroad, unduly burdensome, and seeking information neither relevant to this action nor likely to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, or after the commencement of litigation, as overbroad and unduly burdensome.
- 7. Plaintiffs object to the terms "any" and "all" with respect to certain of the Interrogatories. Plaintiffs undertake to provide such information as they are able to locate after reasonable and diligent investigation. By answering, Plaintiffs do not certify that "any" or "all" items of responsive information have been obtained and reserve the right to supplement their answers as more information becomes available.
- 8. Plaintiffs object to the definition of the terms "you," "your, "responding party" and "RESPONDENT" as overbroad, not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence, and unduly burdensome. For the purposes of this Discovery, Plaintiffs will respond, to the extent applicable, on

- 9. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent it seeks unavailable information or information not currently in their possession, custody or control.
- 10. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it seeks information constituting trade secrets or other financial, technical, research, development, strategic, or commercial information.
- 11. Plaintiffs object to the Discovery to the extent that it seeks discovery concerning the total number of infringing works claimed by the plaintiffs in this case and/or damages. In the case management conference held on November 6, 2006, the Court directed that proceedings on remedial issues such as these will be deferred until after summary judgment proceedings on the core issue of defendants' secondary liability.

Plaintiffs incorporate these General Objections into each specific response as if fully set forth in each response.

RESPONSES

1. List any and all copyrighted works that you are claiming were illegally copied in any manner with the assistance of Defendant's Websites, including, the title of the work/song, the registration number, the number of such copies made, the hash value, the dates and times that such copies were made and by whom with their contact information, where the copies were made, the web sites or URL that provided such copies, and the copyright owner(s) of the work/song.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs further object to Interrogatory No. 1 on the grounds that it seeks information that is beyond the scope of the case management plan directed by Judge Wilson at the Nov. 6, 2006 case management conference, which requires the parties' discovery to be limited to core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is premature in that plaintiffs have not completed discovery in this action, and Plaintiffs' investigation is ongoing; and on the grounds that information supporting Plaintiffs' claims is in the possession, custody, or control of Defendants, their agents, and third parties. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overbroad, unduly burdensome and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Plaintiffs object to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B).

Without waiver of and subject to and incorporating the specific and general objections set forth above, and pursuant to Rule 33(d) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Plaintiffs will produce copies of documents relating to the copyright ownership of the representative list of works in the First Amended Complaint.

2. State all the reasons the responding party has not used the DMCA take down services located on Defendant's Websites to remove torrent files that the responding party believes were/are infringing RESPONDENT's copyrights.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs further object to Interrogatory No. 2 on the grounds that it assumes facts not in evidence and is irrelevant, overbroad, unduly burdensome and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous. Plaintiffs object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it calls for a legal conclusion. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B).

3. Identify all facts that support your contention that defendants are liable for secondary copyright infringement.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs object to Interrogatory No. 3 on the grounds that it is a contention interrogatory and is premature given that discovery is not complete and the court's schedule directs the parties to serve summary judgment motions not later than Aug. 20, 2007, at which time defendants will have plaintiffs' case laid out for them, complete with plaintiffs' legal theories and evidence. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it calls for a legal conclusion. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is premature in that Defendants have not completed discovery in this action, and Plaintiffs' investigation is ongoing; and on the grounds that information supporting Plaintiffs' claims is in the possession, custody, or control of Defendants, their agents, and third parties. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overbroad, unduly burdensome and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs object to Interrogatory No. 4 on the grounds that it is a contention interrogatory and is premature given that discovery is not complete and the court's schedule directs the parties to serve summary judgment motions not later than Aug. 20, 2007, at which time defendants will have plaintiffs' case laid out for them, complete with plaintiffs' legal theories and evidence. Plaintiffs further object to Interrogatory No. 4 on the grounds that it seeks information that is beyond the scope of the case management plan directed by Judge Wilson at the Nov. 6, 2006 case management conference, which requires the parties' discovery to be limited to core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is premature in that Defendants have not completed discovery in this action, and Plaintiffs' investigation is ongoing; and on the grounds that information supporting Plaintiffs' claims is in the possession, custody, or control of Defendants, their agents, and third parties. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous and incapable of precise determination as to the information requested. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overbroad, unduly burdensome and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B).

6. RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs further object to Interrogatory No. 7 to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B). Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous because the meaning of "supporting your response" is unclear.

Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory to the extent it seeks to determine whom in-house counsel selected to approach for information responsive to the interrogatories. The identity of whom counsel selects to approach goes to the mental impressions and strategies of counsel and is thereby protected from disclosure by the work product doctrine. See In re MTI Tech. Corp. Sec. Litig., No. 00-0745, 2002 WL 32344347, at *3 (C.D. Cal. 2002) ("Although the identity and location of witnesses that may have knowledge of any discoverable matter is not protected, the identity of witnesses interviewed by opposing counsel is protected.") (footnote omitted); Massachusetts v. First National Supermarkets, Inc., 112 F.R.D. 149, 152 (D. Mass. 1986) (holding that interrogatory "asking the identity of persons contacted and/or interviewed during an investigation" is improper on work product grounds).

Based on the foregoing objections to each interrogatory herein, there are no responsive persons to be identified.

8. Describe any and all documents, including, but not limited to, Bates Stamp number if produced in discovery in this action, that refer or relate to your responses to each interrogatory or upon which you relied in responding to such interrogatories.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs object to Interrogatory No. 8 on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overbroad, unduly burdensome and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it lacks foundation. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B). Based on the foregoing objections to each interrogatory herein, there are no responsive documents to be identified.

9. Provide any and all facts (and the source of such facts) that support any claim that you may have that Defendants had specific knowledge that specific torrent files or edonkey hash link files on Defendant's Websites infringed or lead to infringement of specific copyrighted works alleged in the Complaint or for which you are claiming damages in this case.

RESPONSE: Plaintiffs incorporate each General Objection as if set forth herein. Plaintiffs object to Interrogatory No. 9 on the grounds that it is a contention interrogatory and is premature given that discovery is not complete and the court's schedule directs the parties to serve summary judgment motions not later than Aug. 20, 2007, at which time defendants will have plaintiffs' case laid out for them, complete with plaintiffs' legal theories and evidence. Plaintiffs further object to Interrogatory No. 5 on the grounds that it seeks information that is beyond the scope of the case management plan directed by Judge Wilson at the Nov. 6, 2006 case management conference, which requires the parties' discovery to be limited to core liability issues as reflected by the representative list of copyrighted works annexed as Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it calls for a legal conclusion. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is premature in that Defendants have not completed discovery in this action, and Plaintiffs' investigation is ongoing; and on the grounds that information supporting Plaintiffs' claims is in the possession, custody, or control of Defendants, their agents, and third parties. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is vague and ambiguous. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory on the grounds that it is overbroad, unduly burdensome and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Plaintiffs further object to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information that is subject to the attorney-client privilege, the joint defense or common interest privilege, the work product doctrine or any other applicable privilege or doctrine, or that it seeks the disclosure of communications with, facts known by, or opinions held by non-testifying experts retained pursuant or specially employed in anticipation of litigation or preparation of trial, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(B).

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA; MONDAY, JULY 1, 2013; 1:45 P.M. 1 2 3 THE CLERK: Item 5, 06-5578-SVW, Columbia Pictures 4 5 Industries, Inc., et al. versus Gary Fung, et al. 6 Counsel, please state your appearances. 7 MR. FABRIZIO: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Steven Fabrizio for the plaintiffs. 8 MS. THORLAND: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Karen 9 10 Thorland, also for the plaintiffs. 11 MR. ELKIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Michael 12 Elkin, Winston and Strawn, co-counsel for defendant Gary Fung 13 and Isohunt Technologies. 14 MS. ROTHKIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. 15 Rothkin, co-counsel for Gary Fung and Isohunt. MR. LANE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Thomas Lane 16 17 from the law firm of Winston and Strawn for the defendants as 18 well. 19 THE COURT: The status conference is with regard to 20 the Ninth Circuit's mandate and also the request by the 21 plaintiff to proceed with the damages aspect of the case. 22 regard to the mandate, I'm going to give the parties two weeks 23 to meet and confer and to attempt to modify the injunction in light of the Ninth Circuit's observations, and if that can't be 24 25 done, then I'm going to order the parties seven days thereafter to file a pleading indicating where they have agreed, where 1 2 they disagree, and why a particular party's position in the 3 redrafting of the injunction should be followed. If I have 4 need to have a further hearing, I'll request it. 5 MR. FABRIZIO: Thank you, Your Honor. 6 THE COURT: Now, with regard to the damages claim, 7 the court did receive a pleading from the defendants indicating 8 that it was their view that damages in this case would be too 9 speculative. Obviously, I'm not in a position to make such a ruling but, Mr. Fabrizio, could you take the lectern and tell 10 11 me how you intend to prove damages. 12 MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor. First of all, the 13 defense that the damages are speculation is not an issue in the 14 case; plaintiffs are lacking statutory damages. 15 THE COURT: I see. 16 MR. FABRIZIO: In order to prove damages under the 17 statutory provision, plaintiffs would have to demonstrate 18 ownership of copyrighted works, that those copyrighted works 19 were infringed by users of defendant's system, and then there 2.0 would be the quantum of per-work statutory damages to be 2.1 applied for each work infringed. 22 THE COURT: Give me an example how that would follow. 23 MR. FABRIZIO: We would have a --2.4 THE COURT: How many copyrights are involved? 25 MR. FABRIZIO: Your Honor, defendant's website

1 infringed virtually the entire library of motion pictures and 2 television programs that our clients own. In the damages 3 proceeding, as a matter of practicalities, there would probably be three to 5,000, which is probably substantially less than the tens of thousands that it could be. 5 THE COURT: How do you intend to go about offering a 7 calculation? MR. FABRIZIO: First, as to the issue of direct 9 infringement, this issue should be -- come down to a rather 10 ministerial act because defendants are in -- are in violation 11 of two court orders to produce the server log data that would 12 prove direct infringement conclusively. The magistrate judge, 13 having sanctioned them repeatedly and warned them, has issued --14 15 THE COURT: Start again. I couldn't hear you. MR. FABRIZIO: I'm sorry, Your Honor. 17 The magistrate judge twice ordered defendants to 18 produce server log data that we would use to conclusively prove direct infringement of our copyrighted works. Having already 20 sanctioned defendants five times and having warned defendants 21 specifically about their failure to comply with these discovery 22 orders, the magistrate judge issued to Your Honor a report and 23 recommendation that evidentiary sanctions be entered in this case and that, effectively, the evidentiary sanction is that direct infringement be established for plaintiff's works where

Case 2:06-cv-05578-SVW-JC Document 567-13 Filed 08/26/13 Page 8 of 26 Page ID #:5464

1 there were torrent files representing those works on 2 defendant's sites; and we are awaiting Your Honor's decision as 3 to whether you are going to adopt that report and 4 recommendation. 5 THE COURT: That report and recommendation was with 6 regard to sanctions not the contempt order. 7 MR. FABRIZIO: That's right, Your Honor --8 THE COURT: Contempt is separate. 9 MR. FABRIZIO: They are completely separate from the 10 contempt --11 THE COURT: I want to get to the contempt issue in a 12 moment, but -- so on the assumption that you get the server, 13 your view is that it would be somewhat mechanical to determine 14 the number of infringements? 15 MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor, but we're not going 16 to get the actual data. Defendants have refused to give it to 17 us, and now that data is gone. They have failed to preserve 18 it, so that's why the magistrate judge has recommended an 19 evidentiary sanction, that the issue of direct infringement be 20 deemed established. So we believe that if you were to adopt 21 that report and recommendation -- obviously, we believe you 22 should -- that the issue of direct infringement will be a 23 relatively ministerial task and won't be one that will need to 2.4 take up jury time. As to copyright ownership --25 THE COURT: When you say won't "take up jury time,"

Case 2:06-cv-05578-SVW-JC Document 567-13 Filed 08/26/13 Page 9 of 26 Page ID #:5465

1 you're saying that you're -- if I adopt the recommendation of the magistrate, you're suggesting that damages would be a 2 3 matter of summary judgment? 4 MR. FABRIZIO: The issue of direct infringement would 5 be a matter of summary judgment. THE COURT: What about the calculation? 6 7 MR. FABRIZIO: The parties have an absolute right to 8 trial by jury in terms of the amount of statutory damages. 9 parties can, obviously, waive that right and have Your Honor try that issue, and the plaintiffs would be willing to do that. 10 11 THE COURT: Maybe the defendants wouldn't, and the 12 law now is that even statutory -- even with regard to statutory 13 damages, the parties have a right to a jury trial. 14 MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, that is correct, Your Honor, the 15 parties have a right to a jury trial. So if this issue goes to 16 the jury, the largest issue in this case -- the jury will be 17 charged that they have a range of damages they can award, 18 between $750 per work; and if the court finds that defendant's 19 conduct is willful -- and we believe the court has effectively 20 already found that with your liability findings -- the maximum per work is $100,000. The jury will be charged that it can 21 22 decide between those two numbers, and the factors that the jury 23 will be able to consider are -- aren't many, but they largely 2.4 go to defendant's conduct, egregiousness of defendant's 25 conduct --

Case 2:06-cv-05578-SVW-JC Document 567-13 Filed 08/26/13 Page 10 of 26 Page ID #:5466

1 THE COURT: What, then, is the -- would be your 2 argument for the total amount of damages? 3 MR. FABRIZIO: We would argue the defendant's conduct in this case -- as found by Your Honor and affirmed by the 4 5 Ninth Circuit -- is particularly egregious. This was not inadvertent copyright infringement, it was intentional, willful 6 7 copyright infringement, and that the jury should award an amount of damages that not only will punish defendants but 8 9 deter defendants and those like him. 10 THE COURT: But the jury is going to award statutory 11 damages, correct? 12 MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor. 13 THE COURT: And how would the jury calculate those 14 damages? 15 MR. FABRIZIO: It would simply be the number of works 16 that are determined to have been infringed times whatever the 17 jury decides --18 THE COURT: Between the range of 750 and --19 MR. FABRIZIO: $150,000. 20 THE COURT: 750 and 150,000. 21 MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor. 22 THE COURT: I see. So the -- without the server --23 that's not available, so you said, correct? 24 MR. FABRIZIO: The data that they were supposed to 25 report does not exist anymore.

1	THE COURT: So how can it be determined, then, that
2	all of the plaintiff's copyrights were infringed?
3	MR. FABRIZIO: Well, initially, Your Honor, we would
4	urge Your Honor to adopt the magistrate judge's report and
5	recommendation, in which case those infringements would be
6	deemed established. We would simply show
7	THE COURT: In other words, they're deemed
8	established as a sanction for destroying evidence.
9	MR. FABRIZIO: And disobeying two court orders.
10	THE CLERK: But in the absence of that, it would seem
11	that there isn't any evidence.
12	MR. FABRIZIO: No, Your Honor. In the absence of
13	that, we have copies of what defendant's websites look like; we
14	have the torrent files representing our client's works that
15	were available
16	THE COURT: What files again?
17	MR. FABRIZIO: Torrent files the small files that
18	defendant hosts on their site. They're called ".torrent"
19	files. So we have copies of what was on defendant's site, and
20	we would be able to establish, in a much more cumbersome way
21	that those files represented our client's works, and that by a
22	preponderance of the evidence, they were downloaded and
23	infringed.
24	THE COURT: I see.
25	MR. FABRIZIO: So that would be much more of a

    work-by-work showing, Your Honor, because the evidence that 2 would have conclusively established --
               THE COURT: So it seems, prior to getting into the damage trial, the court has to make a ruling on the 5 magistrate's recommendation.
6
               MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor. That would expedite 7 trial preparation considerably.
               THE COURT: And since the appeal took some time, was 8
    that issue briefed? In other words, did you file a brief supporting the magistrate's view, and did the defendants file a 10 11
    brief opposing it?
12
               MR. FABRIZIO: This was actually fully briefed -- I 13 think a couple of rounds of briefs in front of the magistrate 14 judge, who issued a proposed report and recommendation that 15
     then we filed objections to, and I think what the magistrate 16 judge did is take that whole package with a cover memo -- which 17 the parties haven't seen -- to Your Honor, supporting the 18 recommendation, and I think everything's now fully briefed and 19 before Your Honor ready for decision.
20
               THE COURT: In other words, the issue was fully 21 briefed before the magistrate judge and my task is to review 22 that.
23
               MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor.
2.4
               THE COURT: Or adopt it or not.
25
               MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor. If it would make it
```

12

1	easy for Your Honor or your clerks I have a list of all
2	the docket numbers if you would like. I can hand up it
3	afterwards
4	THE COURT: That's all right.
5	And then finally, on the contempt issue, it does seem
6	to me that the contempt issues stemmed from the injunction,
7	correct?
8	MR. FABRIZIO: Yes, Your Honor.
9	THE COURT: And the injunction in several parts
10	that's what I addressed at the outset was viewed by the
11	Ninth Circuit as being less than clear.
12	So the question becomes if parts of the injunction
13	were not as clear as they ought to have been, that would seem
14	to be a built-in defense to contempt.
15	MR. FABRIZIO: No, Your Honor, not in this case.
16	THE COURT: Explain why.
17	MR. FABRIZIO: First of all, the Ninth Circuit in a
18	25-page opinion had two pages of commentary on the injunction
19	and found four relatively small issues with it. They all had
20	to do with provisions that are not at issue in the contempt
21	motion, so none of what the Ninth Circuit suggested or directed
22	to be modified has anything to do with any of the issues that
23	are subject of the contempt motions.
24	THE COURT: I see.
25	MR. FABRIZIO: And it is black letter law in this

1	circuit, Your Honor, that when an appellate court modifies an
2	injunction in part, the unaffected parts of the injunction
3	remain in force, and defendants can be held in contempt for
4	violating them.
5	THE COURT: Let me hear from the defendant.
6	MR. FABRIZIO: If I may, Your Honor, on the contempt
7	motions? Because defendants the contempt motions are not
8	moot by any stretch.
9	THE COURT: I didn't say they were moot. That wasn't
10	my thought.
11	MR. FABRIZIO: Okay.
12	THE COURT: It was that they they might be
13	affected by the Ninth Circuit's view of parts of the 14	injunction. I understand your argument that they're not, but I
15	want to hear from the defendant.
16	MR. FABRIZIO: One of the motions one aspect of
17	the motions may not be fresh anymore, so is it worth explaining
18	that to Your Honor?
19	THE COURT: Not right now.
20	MR. FABRIZIO: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.
21	MR. ELKIN: Your Honor, if I may, Michael Elkin here.
22	May I just start with Your Honor's invitation to talk about the
23	damages trial, and then we can circle back on the injunction?
24	THE COURT: Yes.
25	MR. ELKIN: Thank you.

The defendant's lost the case on liability relative to copy -- relative to contributory liability. We know that from Your Honor's decision and the Ninth Circuit's affirmance with respect to that. So what we have left in this case, aside from the injunction issue, is a trial on damages. Mr. Fabrizio, with all due respect, conflated in his presentation to Your Honor contributory liability, which the district court found, and direct liability, which has yet to be adjudicated. THE COURT: I don't think he's conflated anything. He explained that the direct-liability aspect derives from the court's adoption, or not, of the magistrate's recommendation. If the court follows the magistrate's recommendation, direct liability would be imposed as a sanction. MR. ELKIN: I appreciate that, Your Honor, so let me do the following: Let me address the contributory liability. That is the summary judgment finding and order that this court has entered, as affirmed by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. So with respect to what is front and center in terms of the damages trial -- are the following elements: No. 1, under Perfect 10 versus Google, the plaintiffs have to demonstrate that there is an underlying infringement with respect to any works that they put into issue. There was a showing to Your Honor --THE COURT: I'm going to interrupt because I think we're getting too much into the details of the positions.

                                                                 So
2
    what I'm going to do is this: I'm going to first, as I 3 indicated, order the parties to meet and confer on how the 4 injunction should be modified or not, and file those pleadings 5 within 14 days of today -- within seven days of the meet and 6 confer period, indicating where there's agreement and 7
    disagreement and why one party's position should be followed.
               With regard to the damage aspect of the case, as a first matter, I'm going to have to now make a ruling on the 10 magistrate's recommendation, which I hopefully can do in a 11 reasonable period of time; then once I make that ruling, I'll 12 have another hearing on the damage phase and hear your 13 arguments in greater detail. And with regard to the contempt 14 argument, I want that briefed. In other words, I want the 15 plaintiff to first file a brief within ten days of today 16 explaining your position that the order of contempt -- the proposed order of contempt -- which was never adopted, correct?
9
17
18
               MR. FABRIZIO: No, Your Honor, never --
19
               THE COURT: -- should -- why it wasn't affected by 20 the Ninth Circuit's observations regarding parts of the 21 injunction, and then I'll give you seven days thereafter to 22 respond.
23
               And then you can reply in three days. And we'll have 2.4
    a hearing -- just one moment.
25
               THE CLERK: Plaintiff's brief will be due July 11;
```

1
    defendant's response will be July 18th; and the reply brief 2 will be July 22nd; hearing will be July 29th at 1:30.
               THE COURT: Just -- and not to get into this in great
 4
    detail, but is it the defense argument that, for some reason, 5
    damages are not available at all?
               MR. ELKIN: Your Honor, if you could give me two 6
 7
    minutes.
 8
               THE COURT: Just answer my question.
9
               MR. ELKIN: Damages are certainly available with 10 respect to any claim as to whether liability has been 11 established. It's only been established as contributory.
12
               THE COURT: So let's assume for the moment that 13 that's where things will stand, there's only a liability for 14 contributory damages. What is the plaintiff left with?
                                                              Is the 15 plaintiff without a damage remedy?
16
               MR. ELKIN: I think there are two things: No. 1, the 17
    Ninth Circuit decision -- as Your Honor knows well -- clearly 18 stated that in order for there to be damages, the plaintiff has to show a sufficient causal connection between the user's 19 20 infringing activity and the use of Fung's trackers. There is 21 an element of causation relative to the works they're putting 22 into issue. There were 44 exemplar works that were part of the 23 amended complaint. Mr. Fabrizio -- we just heard Mr. Fabrizio talk about three to 5,000 works for which discovery hasn't even 2.4
25 been made available. They have to demonstrate, aside from --
```

1	with respect to contributory liability, there hasn't been any
2	adjudication of direct liability. I understand what the
3	representations
4	THE COURT: But your argument about the number of
5	works, as defined in the complaint, would hold true even if
6	there was direct infringement.
7	MR. ELKIN: With respect to the 44 works, this is
8	what would have to happen, in our view.
9	THE COURT: You have to answer my questions. You
10	have an interest in informing the court I appreciate that
11	but I want you to answer the question.
12	If there was direct infringement, would the direct
13	infringement be limited to the works described in the
14	complaint?
15	MR. ELKIN: Yes, it would be, in our review. Until
16	the court were to permit if it would an amendment
17	relevant to new works, it would be, to the extent that the
18	court would permit that
19	THE COURT: I understand that. You've answered the
20	question. I understand it.
21	Now, when you file your pleading regarding the
22	damages I didn't ask you to file a pleading.
23	MR. FABRIZIO: No, Your Honor, we haven't.
24	THE COURT: Well, just in a nutshell, what is your
25	response to that?

1
               MR. FABRIZIO: On the issue of -- that the case is 2 limited to the works that are named in the complaint -- 3
               THE COURT: Yes.
               MR. FABRIZIO: -- at the initial case management
 4 5 conference with Your Honor, the parties and the court decided 6 that the liability phase of this case would go forward based on 7
    the 44 or so works that were named in the complaint with the 8 ability to bring in the other works in the damages phase.
9
               THE COURT: But that's what counsel is now saying.
10
    He's saying that there's -- don't you have to prove that?
11
               MR. FABRIZIO: We have to prove that they were 12 directly infringed through the use of defendant's sites, which 13 the report and recommendation of the magistrate judge would 14 largely take care of.
15
               THE COURT: With regard to the 44.
16
               MR. FABRIZIO: No, no. That's already been 17 established. That was on summary judgment. With regard to the 18 other -- let's call it -- three to 5,000.
               THE COURT: Yes. How is that going to be 19
2.0
    established?
21
               MR. FABRIZIO: That would be -- again, that is what 22
     the magistrate judge's report and recommendation goes to.
23
               THE COURT: I'll have to review that, and if I need 24 further briefing or hearing, I'll let you know. The matter 25 will stand submitted. Thank you.
```

19
```

```
MR. FABRIZIO: On the dates --
 1
 2
               THE COURT: No, no. I issued the order.
               I'm not hearing from the parties any further. I've 3 given you an opportunity. If I need further comment, I'll 4
     order it. Thank you.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the above-named plaintiffs and third-party the Motion Picture Association of America ("MPAA") hereby move ex parte for an order (i) limiting defendants' Rule 30(b)(6) deposition topics as set forth in the proposed order, and (ii) awarding plaintiffs and the MPAA their reasonable costs and attorneys' fees for the filing of this application. Defendants have served Rule 30(b)(6) notices on the plaintiffs and on the MPAA, plaintiffs' counsel of record in this action, that vastly exceed the scope of a permissible deposition in this case. This Court has previously ruled on identical issues – multiple times – in the parallel case of Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. v. Bunnell, No. 06-1093 FMC(JCx), involving the same counsel, but counsel for defendants here has refused to consider or be guided by the Court's express rulings on those issues – or to any basic concept of what is at issue in this case. Accordingly, with the MPAA's noticed deposition scheduled for early next week, August 7, 2007, plaintiffs and the MPAA are forced to file this ex parte application seeking relief from the Court.

This Ex Parte Application is based on this Notice, the accompanying Application; the accompanying Declaration of Steven B. Fabrizio and exhibits; all pleadings on file with the Court; all matters of which the Court may take judicial notice; and all such additional evidence and argument as may be presented to the Court during any hearing on this Application, if a hearing is required.

Plaintiffs and the MPAA have diligently sought the relief requested here through discussions with defendants, including a formal meet-and-confer with defendants' counsel on July 31, 2007. Defendants' counsel has stated that because defendants disagree with the Court's previous rulings and because defendants' goal is to "create a legally recognizable record for an appellate court to review," the filing of this ex parte application, and the issuance of an order limiting the scope of the deposition, is necessary.

EX PARTE APPLICATION

The Court has gone through these issues very recently (multiple times), and the plaintiffs genuinely tried to avoid having to bring them before the Court yet again. The issues presented here, regarding defendants' Rule 30(b)(6) notices to the plaintiff studios and the MPAA, Fabrizio Decl., Exs. 1 (notice to plaintiffs) & 2 (notice to MPAA), are substantively identical to those raised by notices sent by the same defendants' counsel to the same plaintiff studios and MPAA in Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. v. Bunnell, No. 06-1093 FMC(JCx) (the "Bunnell Litigation"). While the categories in the new notices are fewer in number than the categories in the Bunnell Litigation notices, that is merely a matter of form: the notices here are more broadly crafted include all of the offending categories, including for instance multiple categories devoted to topics the Court repeatedly has ruled to be irrelevant (e.g., Google, BitTorrent technology generally, every online license ever granted by any plaintiff, and so-called "spoof" files), and to topics that Judge Wilson has directed are outside the scope of the upcoming summary judgment motions (e.g., damages and direct infringement of works other than the illustrative works identified in Exhibit A to the Complaint). Indeed, the current notices are even broader and more irrelevant to any legitimate issues in this case. To be sure, the Court's relevance rulings were made in context of the Bunnell Litigation; however, although this action and the Bunnell Litigation are not formally related, the two litigations are indistinguishable on the issue of the appropriate scope of Rule 30(b)(6) depositions, and the two cases have proceeded in parallel on discovery matters. In any event, at a minimum, the parties and counsel are obligated to consider those precedents in arriving at discovery positions that are substantially justified.

In light of the explicit precedents and guidance from the Court on the identical issues, Fabrizio Decl., Exs. 3 (7/19/07 Order re MPAA) & 4 (7/27/07 Order re plaintiff studios), plaintiffs and the MPAA sought to resolve the issues presented here without further imposition on the Court's resources. However, defendants' counsel advised plaintiffs and the MPAA that defendants affirmatively would not take action in this case in light of those Bunnell Litigation orders, because defendants disagree with them and want "to create a legally recognizable record for an appellate court to review." Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 5 (7/30/07 12:18 p.m. Rothken to Fabrizio e-mail). In an effort to accommodate defendants, plaintiffs and the MPAA proposed "to enter into a stipulation (to be so ordered by the Court) such that we deem the Court's orders applicable – to fully preserve your appeal issues, such as they are." Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 5 (7/30/07 12:45 p.m. Fabrizio to Rothken e-mail). Defendants refused, insisting that the issue be re-litigated in this case.

Accordingly, this application identifies those categories from the Rule 30(b)(6) notices to plaintiffs and the MPAA that are objectionable. Because the categories in the notices to plaintiffs and the MPAA are word-for-word identical, for the convenience of the Court, plaintiffs and MPAA address both notices at the same time, collectively. To the extent not addressed below, plaintiffs and the MPAA do not object to categories in the notices. Further, because several of the categories are overlapping and duplicative of other categories, where doing so might assist the Court's analysis, categories raising the same issues are discussed together.

A. Noticed Deposition Topics

1. Topics 1, 3, and 6

Topic No. 1: Any and all information related to efforts by MPAA and/or Plaintiffs [t]o investigate, assess, learn about and/or evaluate copyright piracy concerning torrent files in general, and all efforts by MPAA and/or Plaintiff specifically to detect, assess, monitor or prevent copyright piracy by users of the Defendants' Websites.

Topic No. 3: Any and all information related to efforts by MPAA and/or Plaintiffs to investigate, assess, learn about and/or evaluate whether or not Torrentspy is aware of the illegal nature of its website or can supervise or control infringers or infringement, profits from it, or materially contributes to infringement.

Topic No. 6: Any and all information related to MPAA and/or Plaintiffs' Investigation of Defendants' Websites and defendants.

These proposed topics, which facially relate entirely to the plaintiffs' and MPAA's investigation of the defendants, are not remotely relevant to the allegations of copyright infringement or affirmative defenses at issue here. Information about what the plaintiffs or MPAA did to investigate wrongdoing has no bearing on whether the defendants committed wrongdoing – especially here, where defendants have no affirmative defense even alleging investigative malfeasance. How plaintiffs and the MPAA went about uncovering defendants' copyright infringement simply is not reasonably calculated to uncover evidence that would "make the existence of any fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action more probable or less probable." Fed. R. Evid. 401.

Plaintiffs recognize the Court's ruling in the Bunnell Litigation that work-product issues should be dealt with on a question-by-question basis, Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 4 (7/27/07 Order ¶ 2); but see Linder v. Nat'l Security Agency, 94 F.3d 693, 698 (D.C. Cir. 1996) (quashing subpoena given "likelihood that virtually all of [the requested documents] were privileged"). However, the objection to these topics is not only that they would exclusively call for information protected by the attorney work product doctrine or attorney-client privilege. More fundamentally, there is absolutely no relevance to plaintiffs' or the MPAA's investigative process. This case is about defendants' conduct, not plaintiffs'. That is especially so in this action: unlike in the Bunnell Litigation, where defendants asserted various unclean hands, copyright misuse, and equitable affirmative defenses, defendants in this case have affirmatively and expressly withdrawn all such defenses by stipulation after having been served with a Rule 11 motion related to them. Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 7 (stipulation withdrawing affirmative defense nos. 17 (equitable bar), 26 (unclean hands), and 38 (copyright misuse)) & Ex. 8 (defendants' Answer). Thus, whatever minimal relevance the investigative process may have had in the Bunnell Litigation, it has none in this case. A protective order should be issued as to Topics 1, 3 and 6 on the basis that they are irrelevant to any claim or defense at issue.

2. Topics 2, 8 and 9

Topic No. 2: Any and all information which will support or relate to Plaintiffs' claim of contributory or vicarious or "inducement" copyright infringement against defendants or the Defendants' Websites.

Topic No. 8: Any and all information related to Secondary copyright infringement caused or contributed to by defendants and Defendants' Websites and related facts, analysis, and basis.

Topic No. 9: Any and all information related to any act, statement, process, writing, or conduct, involving alleged inducement by any defendant of any copyright infringement of any copyrighted work, including but not limited to, the analysis of the availability of defendants' intent and the number or statistical analysis of the number of allegedly infringing works obtainable via the Defendants' Websites.

With these topics, defendants purport to seek to examine corporate witnesses, many of whom are not lawyers, as to the basis for every single claim and contention plaintiffs make in this case, and on every single fact or analysis that supports such claims or contentions. That would be a physical impossibility for any individual at a deposition, even lead litigation counsel. These requests amount to wildly overbroad and unduly burdensome contention interrogatories – demanded in the context of a deposition. Moreover, in asking for all information supporting the plaintiffs' infringement claims, defendants seek not mere facts possessed in the organization's knowledge, but entire theories of the case, encompassing expert testimony and attorney work product. Indeed, most of the facts are not in possession of any of the noticed entities, but rather are known by their outside litigation counsel, for the very reason that the facts and evidence supporting plaintiffs' claims have been developed through discovery of defendants and independent investigation of outside counsel during the course of litigation. It is wholly improper to attempt to use depositions of corporate representatives to propound contention interrogatories. E.g., U.S. v. Dist.

Council of New York City & Vicinity of United Broth. of Carpenters & Joiners of America, No. 90-Civ5722, 1992 WL 208284, at *15-*16 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 18, 1992) (requiring party "to marshal all of its factual proof and then provide it to [the deponent] so that she could respond to what are essentially a form of contention interrogatories would be highly inefficient and burdensome, rather than the most direct manner of securing relevant information"); McCormick-Morgan, Inc. v.
Teledyne Indus., Inc., 134 F.R.D. 275, 286-87 (N.D. Cal. 1991) (ruling that contention interrogatory, not party deposition, is appropriate means of determining bases for claims, especially when subject matter is complicated), rev'd on other grounds, 765 F. Supp. 611 (N.D. Cal. 1991); Cable & Computer Tech., Inc. v.
Lockheed Saunders, Inc., 175 F.R.D. 646, 652 (C.D. Cal. 1997).

Furthermore, there is absolutely no point in subjecting corporate witnesses to this level of harassing examination in this case. Plaintiffs' claims and contentions in this case have been clear all along, and plaintiffs have produced all non-privileged documents related to those claims. The overwhelming part of the evidence supporting plaintiffs' claims and plaintiffs' ongoing expert analyses comes from the documents and other discovery produced by defendants – documents and discovery that neither the plaintiffs nor MPAA will have seen at any level of detail. Those materials have been (and continue to be) analyzed by outside litigation counsel and retained consulting and testifying expert witnesses. Moreover, the purpose of contention interrogatories is to avoid unfair surprise at trial. E.g., Wechsler v. Hunt Health Sys., Ltd., No. 94-Civ.-8294, 1999 WL 672902, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 27, 1999) (contention interrogatories are designed to "narrow[] and clarify[] the disputed issues and reduce[] the possibility of surprise at trial"). There is no risk of that here, given the case management plan ordered by Judge Wilson. Both sides will be filing summary judgment motions in a matter of three weeks. Defendants will have a full explication of the entirety of plaintiffs' case and all of their evidence supporting it – including expert evidence – long before any trial in this matter, if there is one.<sup>1</sup>

A protective order should issue as to Topics 2, 8 and 9 on the basis that they are overbroad and unduly burdensome, and because they seek to propound exhaustive contention interrogatories through the impermissible means of depositions.

3. Topics 4 and 5

Topic 4: Any and all information related to relations, agreements, and communications with BitTorrent Incorporated or BitTorrent.com or the use of BitTorrent technology by plaintiffs and others.

Topic 5: Any and all information related to any plan of MPAA and/or Plaintiffs to take advantage of any opportunity afforded by using BitTorrent technology.

These two topics mingle issues that this Court has considered at least four times in the Bunnell Litigation – each time ruling that discovery as to BitTorrent technology generally is completely irrelevant to the claims and defenses in this case. Plaintiffs have never asserted (and in fact have specifically disavowed any suggestion) that BitTorrent technology itself is somehow unlawful. This case is about conduct, defendants' conduct; not technology. Both this Court and the District Court (Judge Cooper) have specifically ruled that information about the technology generally does not have "any tendency to make the existence of any fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action more probable or less probable than it would be without the evidence" and is not "reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence." Fabrizio Decl., Exs. 9 (2/13/07 Order at 4), 10 (4/16/07 Den. of Review at 4), 11 (5/15/07 Order at 6), 12 (6/21/07 Den. of Review at 5 & n.3). On that issue of relevance, this case and the Bunnell Litigation are indistinguishable, and the reasoning and force of those rulings applies equally here.

The Court also has considered (multiple times) the issue of the relevance of plaintiffs' dealings, if any, with the company BitTorrent, Inc. In granting a protective order in the Bunnell Litigation, the Court identified one category of information that would be potentially relevant: namely, "whether plaintiffs have authorized BitTorrent, Inc. to distribute or to make available on a general and unrestricted basis, all or part of plaintiffs' copyrighted works alleged in the Complaint or listed in the attachment to the Complaint (and any others for which plaintiffs are claiming defendants infringed" through the commencement of the litigation. Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 9 (2/13/07 Order at 4); Ex. 11 (5/15/07 Order at 6).

Plaintiffs have agreed that the Court's defined topic is appropriate and have offered to proceed on that basis. Indeed, plaintiffs have offered to remove the date limitation of the commencement of the litigation such that defendants could inquire, without outer date restriction, as to the category defined by the Court. Beyond that, as this Court has recognized, the general issue of dealings with any company, including BitTorrent, Inc., is simply not related to any claim or defense in this case.

Accordingly, a protective order should issue as to Topics 4 and 5 on the basis that they are irrelevant except insofar as defendants may inquire "whether plaintiffs have authorized BitTorrent, Inc. to distribute or to make available on a general and unrestricted basis, all or part of plaintiffs' copyrighted works alleged in the Complaint or listed in the attachment to the Complaint (and any others for which plaintiffs are claiming defendants infringed)."

4. Topics 7 and 22

Topic 7: Any and all information related to Noncopyright infringing uses of torrent files or the bit-torrent network or bit-torrent technology or the Defendants' Websites.

Topic No. 22: Any and all information related to analysis of the number of allegedly infringing works and non-infringing works arising out of torrent files available or downloaded using Defendants' Websites or available on the BitTorrent Network.

Plaintiffs and MPAA have no objection to defendants inquiring about non-infringing uses of the defendants' websites. However, again, as the Court already has ruled, information relating to the BitTorrent network or technology generally is simply not relevant to whether the defendants are liable for secondary copyright infringement, and poses an undue burden in preparing witnesses to testify. Fabrizio Decl., Exs. 9 (2/13/07 Order at 4), 10 (4/16/07 Den. of Review at 4), 11 (5/15/07 Order at 6), 12 (6/21/07 Den. of Review at 5 & n.3). Plaintiffs, accordingly, ask that these topics be narrowed to "non-infringing uses of the defendants' websites."

Plaintiffs also must emphasize that the information defendants seek is primarily the subject of expert analyses and testimony. Plaintiffs are in the process of finalizing expert statistical analyses of the proportion of infringing works available on defendants' sites and actually downloaded from defendants' sites by defendants' users. Defendants will soon get discovery of all of plaintiffs' statistical analyses – but through plaintiffs' expert statisticians, not lay corporate witnesses who have no knowledge of statistics or the ongoing statistical analyses. Plaintiffs intend to produce expert statistical analyses as soon as they are completed, and expect to do so next week or early the following week – a timeline defendants can hardly complain about, given that it was defendants' belated production of data that has delayed completion of plaintiffs' analyses. Plaintiffs will make their experts available for deposition regarding those analyses prior to the August 20th summary judgment deadline, as directed by Judge Wilson. Defendants should not be permitted to depose lay corporate representatives about ongoing statistical analyses (which are, in their incomplete state, attorney work product), particularly when those corporate representatives have no expertise or basis to provide such testimony and given that plaintiffs have represented that the appropriate expert witnesses will be made available to defendants when those analyses are completed.

According, a protective order should issue as to Topics 7 and 22, with the exception that defendants are permitted to ask the corporate representative about non-infringing uses of defendants' sites, if any, excluding plaintiffs' ongoing expert statistical analyses.

5. Topics 10, 12, 13, 28 and 29

Topic 10: Any and all information related to primary infringement that occurred in relation to use of or arising out of Defendants' Websites.

Topic 12: Any and all information related to copyrighted works that were downloaded in an unauthorized manner using any torrent file found via Defendants' Websites.

Topic 13: Any and all information related to Internet Files referenced by torrent files obtained using the Defendants' Websites that MPAA and/or Plaintiffs or their representatives actually listened to or viewed or analyzed.

Topic 28: Any and all information related to communications, documents, information, and data related to the number of downloads of plaintiffs' copyrighted works arising out of torrent files downloaded using Defendants' Websites.

Topic 29: Any and all information related to plaintiffs['] copyright registrations for the copyrights mentioned in the complaint or at issue in this case.

These five topics all get at one thing: plaintiffs' knowledge and evidence of direct infringement of their copyrighted works through defendants' sites. That issue has obvious relevance to the case as a whole. And, plaintiffs do not dispute that, at the appropriate time, defendants will have the opportunity to take appropriate discovery as to all works directly infringed by defendants' users for which plaintiffs are seeking to hold defendants liable as secondary copyright infringers. However, as was the case in the Bunnell Litigation, Judge Wilson has expressly phased the management of this case, such that summary judgment motions will be heard on the core liability issues, and based on the illustrative works identified in Exhibit A to the Complaint. Judge Wilson directed this during the initial case management conference in Chambers. While there is no transcript of those proceedings, this should not be a matter of dispute. It also is exactly how Judge Wilson organized the Grokster litigation currently pending before him – during this first phase of proceedings, plaintiffs were to establish the defendants' core liability by looking only at those files listed as representative in Exhibit A. If the plaintiffs establish liability based on Exhibit A, a subsequent phase would open up questions of the multiplicity of other acts of direct infringement of plaintiffs' works and extent of the damages at issue. See, e.g., EEOC v. Nebco Evans Distrib., No. 8:CV96-00644, 1997 WL 416423, at *2 (D. Neb. June 9, 1997) (deferring remedial discovery until liability was determined).

The very point of organizing the case in this manner is to avoid early discovery as to thousands of individual copyrighted works that undoubtedly have been directly infringed at the hand of defendants. Thus, discovery into the particulars of copyrighted works beyond those identified in Exhibit A to the Complaint has always been outside the scope of discovery in the initial phase of litigation directed by Judge Wilson. Document and written discovery to date in this case has respected that direction and abided by it. Inexplicably, defendants now seek unfettered deposition discovery into all works, thousands or even tens of thousands of them, owned by plaintiffs.

For purposes of the upcoming summary judgment motions, plaintiffs do not intend to establish defendants' secondary copyright liability for direct infringement of works other than those identified in Exhibit A to the Complaint. Accordingly, consistent with the Court's ruling in the Bunnell Litigation, at this time, defendants should be permitted to inquire about the specific copyrighted works identified in Exhibit A to the Complaint, and no other works. Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 4 (7/27/07 Order at 2).

6. Topics 11, 24, 25 and 31

Topic 11: Any and all information related to research done regarding the impact of any and all "unauthorized" torrent files on Plaintiffs' commercial sales of copyrighted works.

Topic 24: Any and all information related to research done regarding the impact of any and all "unauthorized" torrent files located on Defendants' Websites and other sites that point to infringing works on Plaintiffs' commercial sales of copyrighted works including the copyrighted works alleged in the complaint or at issue in this case.

Topic 25: Any and all information regarding the impact of the Defendants' Websites or dissemination of torrent files and related files on the Internet on Plaintiffs' profitability.

Topic 31: Any and all information related to quantification of monetary damages or related to plaintiffs' requests in the complaint for injunctive relief.

As with the previous set of topics, these topics all relate to an issue that Judge Wilson expressly put off limits during this first phase of the case. Once plaintiffs have established core liability, the parties will then move to damages and, as the Court deems appropriate, the scope of and a schedule for damages discovery will be ordered. But until they do, these topics – which deal with the "impact" or "monetary damages or … injunctive relief" based on defendants' actions – are premature. In fact, it was precisely because such discovery would distract from, and delay adjudication of, the core liability issues that Judge Wilson directed the parties to defer it for a second phase. Thus, as the Court recognized in ruling on this same issue in the Bunnell Litigation, "inquiring about damages/injunctive relief … at this stage of the proceedings" is inappropriate. Ex. 4 (7/27/07 Order at 3).

7. Topic 14

Topic 14: Any and all information related to agreements, facts, and practices involving the distribution of copyrighted works of any plaintiff through any peer to peer technology over the Internet including but not limited to BitTorrent technology.

This topic is similar to Topics 4 and 5, except generalized beyond BitTorrent, Inc. to any potential online licensee of any plaintiff. The Court has addressed this very topic (multiple times) in the Bunnell Litigation, ruling that plaintiffs' licenses to others are wholly irrelevant to any claim or defense in this case, except insofar as "plaintiffs have authorized general or unrestricted distribution or availability over the internet of all or part of plaintiffs' copyrighted works alleged in the Complaint or listed in the attachment to the Complaint (and any others for which plaintiffs are claiming defendants infringed)." Fabrizio Decl., Exs. 9 (2/13/07 Order at 3) & 11 (5/15/07 Order at 6). Defendants already know that they do not have licenses to distribute plaintiffs' copyrighted works. Unless plaintiffs have granted authorizations for "general or unrestricted" distribution of their works such that, arguably, the rampant re-distribution of those works by defendants' users could be deemed authorized, plaintiffs' licensing arrangements with others – e.g., whether or not a plaintiff has licensed Apple's iTunes or other legitimate distributors – have no relation to any claim or defense in this action.

Accordingly, Topic 14 should be narrowed to only permit inquiry as to

8. Topics 15, 18 and 30

Topic 15: Any and all information related to Torrent files made available or distributed via the internet by any of the Plaintiffs or the MPAA or those acting on their behalf.

Topic 18: Any and all information related to Web sites or servers or services that are run or controlled by any of the plaintiffs or the MPAA or those acting on their behalf that in any manner host, store, link to, track, seed, download, upload, analyze, or make available torrent files or files pointed to by torrent files including but not limited to all or part of plaintiffs' copyrighted works.

Topic 30: Any and all information related to torrent files uploaded or downloaded by the MPAA or plaintiffs or those working on their behalf to the Defendants' Websites.

These topics seek to discover information about "spoof" files that defendants believe plaintiffs and/or the MPAA distribute as part of their antipiracy efforts. To be clear, plaintiffs are not claiming that defendants or their users have infringed socalled "spoof" files. Spoof files, by their very definition, do not contain the content that users expect the files to have. They are files that give the appearance of being infringing copies of the most popular copyrighted motion pictures and television shows – but they are not. They often contain nothing (white noise) or antipiracy messages, and often are designed so that they will never complete their download. The antipiracy value of these fake files is to disappoint and deter would-be infringing users: i.e., those who explicitly are trying to download infringing copies of plaintiffs' copyrighted works. As this Court and Judge Cooper have already ruled, they have nothing to do with whether the defendants' are liable for secondary infringement. Fabrizio Decl., Exs. 10 (4/16/07 Den. of Review at 4-5) ("Defendants have failed to demonstrate that Judge Chooljian erred in her decision to exclude 'spoof' files from discovery") & 12 (6/21/07 Den. of Review at 6). There is absolutely no distinction between the relevance issue in this case and the Bunnell Litigation.

Indeed, defendants most likely want these materials because they reveal highly sensitive information about antipiracy strategies – which defendants could use to undermine those strategies. See DirecTV, Inc. v. Trone, 209 F.R.D. 455, 458-59 (C.D. Cal. 2002) (denying discovery of antipiracy efforts).

Accordingly, a protective order should issue as to Topics 15, 18 and 30 on the basis that they are irrelevant to any claim or defense at issue.

torrent files that MPAA and/or Plaintiffs believe were/are infringing or leading to infringing files.

Topic 32: Any and all information related to the Defendants' Websites and DMCA mechanisms as it exists in its current state that the MPAA or plaintiffs find objectionable or that would in any way relate to plaintiffs' liability claims and allegations in the complaint that would not render such plaintiffs' liability claims and allegations moot or no longer existing.

As an initial matter, Topic 32 is so ambiguous as to be largely unintelligible. But to the extent that it and Topic 17 seek information about the reasons why some plaintiffs may not have used defendants' DMCA procedures, the topics are wholly irrelevant to the plaintiffs' Complaint and to the defendants' DMCA defense. Defendants know the relevant facts: whether a plaintiff has sent defendants DMCA notices and how defendants have responded to the notices. The question of "why" any plaintiff may have sent a DMCA notice or may have decided not to send a notice has no bearing on any issue. Defendants' DMCA procedures and practices become relevant only to the extent a copyright holder uses them; at that point defendants' response, or lack or response, may be relevant. But the DMCA does not require any copyright holder to send notices. The DMCA provides for at least four independent requirements that a qualifying service provider must satisfy in order to potentially be eligible for "safe harbor" under the DMCA. 17 U.S.C. § 512(d). One of them is responding in a statutorily compliant manner with takedown notices when a copyright owner chooses to send them. However, it does not require a copyright holder to send a notice, and even a defendant who fully complies with a notice would not be eligible for "safe harbor" if that defendant did not fully satisfy all of the other statutory prerequisites. "Why" a plaintiff may or may not have sent defendants a DMCA notice is both irrelevant and, in almost all cases, would be privileged from disclosure based on the attorney-client privilege or attorney work product doctrine.

Accordingly, a protective order should issue as to Topics 17 and 32 on the basis that they are irrelevant.

Topic 20: Any and all information related to analysis of third party search engines and sites that make available Dot-torrent files and the existence, contribution, and cause of copyright infringement.

Topic 20, without naming names, seeks information about Google (and, as drafted, any other search engine on the Internet). It is entirely irrelevant to the issues in this case, which concerns defendants' conduct, not the conduct of any third-party search engine. This Court has ruled, and been affirmed, multiple times that evidence relating to the search engine Google.com has no relevance in this litigation. As Judge Cooper put it in affirming this Court's decision the first time, "whether the online services Defendants provide are similar to other Internet entities, such as Google, is not relevant to whether Defendants are liable for copyright infringement as Plaintiffs allege in this case." Fabrizio Decl., Ex. 10 (4/16/07 Den. of Review at 5-6); see also Exs. 9 (2/13/07 Order at 4-5), 4 (7/27/07 Order at 3) (denying Req. No. 61), 6 (Bunnell Plaintiffs Notice Req. No. 61) (search engines). Plaintiffs here do not have to prove whether Google violates their copyrights; they need only prove that defendants do. See, e.g., Central Valley Chrysler Valley Jeep, Inc. v. Witherspoon, No. CV-F-04-6663, 2006 WL 1883363, at *3, *8 (E.D. Cal. July 7, 2006). There is no conceivable basis for defendants to argue that there are distinctions between this case and the Bunnell Litigation that somehow make the conduct of Google, and every other search engine, remotely relevant to defendants' conduct, or the claims or defenses at issue in this case.

Accordingly, a protective order should issue as to Topic 20 on the basis that it is irrelevant.

11. Topic 21

Topic 21: Any and all information related to relations, agreements, interviews, and communications with any witnesses who have used the Defendants' Websites or have in any manner interacted with it or had any relations involving it business or otherwise.

This topic is both overbroad and irrelevant, and vague and ambiguous to the point of impossibility. Defendants seek to depose the plaintiffs about any communications that the company has ever had with anyone who has ever "used ... [or] in any manner interacted with" defendants' websites, or has "had any relations involving" their websites – and, indeed, whether or not the communication even related to the websites. Most basically, plaintiffs have no way of knowing who, of the thousands of people who interact with their companies, has ever "interacted with" the defendants' websites.

Moreover, there is no possible relevance to such a topic. Were defendants interested in simply identifying any undisclosed witnesses for the plaintiffs, they could ask such information through other means. But they do not even have to do that. Judge Wilson has instructed the parties that they should make their summary judgment declarants available to the other side for deposition. There is no suggestion that plaintiffs have been other than open on these issues. The plaintiffs' Rule 30(b)(6) witnesses are very likely their only fact witnesses, and expert witnesses are being disclosed, and will be made available for deposition. Whether the plaintiffs or their counsel, the MPAA, have communicated with others who have "interacted" with the defendants' websites is both impossible to know and, to the extent it is known, is irrelevant and almost wholly work product.

12. Topic 23

Topic 23: Any and all information related to efforts by MPAA and/or Plaintiffs to investigate, assess, learn about and/or evaluate that the Internet and bit-torrent technology provide budding artists without recording company contracts with an inexpensive vehicle for communicating their work to the public.

If there were any doubt about whether the defendants are wasting the Court's and plaintiffs' resources by forcing the present application, this topic should remove it. Plainly, defendants have simply "cut and paste" from prior lists of Rule 30(b)(6) topics, without giving the care or thought that is required. Had defendants even read this Topic 23 before serving it, even they would have to admit that the issue of "budding artists without recording company contracts" has no relevance here: The plaintiffs and MPAA do not deal with "budding artists without recording company contracts." This action concerns defendants' infringement of the motion picture studio plaintiffs' copyrighted motion pictures and television shows – not music or sound recordings. Furthermore, the topic, again, impermissibly seeks information about all of BitTorrent technology in general (see, e.g., supra Topics 4 and 5).

Accordingly, a protective order should issue as to Topic 23 on the basis that it is irrelevant.

13. Topic 26

Topic 26: Any and all information related to correspondence or other communication between Plaintiffs and others, including but not limited to MPAA, concerning Defendants or Defendants' Websites.

This request is objectionable as being vague and overbroad. It requires each plaintiff to designate a single individual to become educated about all correspondence, anywhere, regardless of whether defendants asked that the correspondence be produced, if it "concern[s]" defendants or their website.

Plaintiffs have already produced all non-privileged documents and correspondence responsive to any of defendants' document requests. Plaintiffs have no objection to their corporate representatives being examined on any of the documents produced. But, to the extent the topic seeks to go beyond that, it would be physically impossible to have any individual prepared to speak to every document in some corporate file. Indeed, as framed, the topic seems to be an effort to propound a de facto document request for all correspondence that "concerns" defendants or their website, under the guise of a Rule 30(b)(6) notice.

Accordingly, a protective order should issue as to Topic 26 limiting it to documents produced by the plaintiff in response to one of defendants' document demands.

14. Topic 27

Topic 27: Any and all information related to efforts made by MPAA and/or Plaintiffs to remove or take off the Internet or BitTorrent Network actual files allegedly referenced in torrent files available via the Defendants' Websites.

Topic 27 is irrelevant. Like so many others, this topic is based on the simple (but repeated) fallacy that plaintiffs' or MPAA's actions regarding other infringing parties has relevance to whether defendants are liable for copyright infringement. Whether or not the plaintiffs or MPAA have taken any such actions does not tend to make any fact in this action more or less likely. Here, defendants seem to be seeking information as to whether plaintiffs or the MPAA have taken steps to remove the actual infringing content pointed to by defendants' dot-torrent files. Since, as defendants know, that infringing content typically resides on the personal computers of defendants' (and other BitTorrent) users, the topic in fact seeks to inquire as to whether plaintiffs have taken action against those users. That is irrelevant. The secondary copyright liability issues in this case require plaintiffs to prove that direct infringement occurred, not that plaintiffs have exhausted their efforts to enforce against each of the millions of direct infringers. Whether plaintiffs have or have not taken any such actions is not probative of any claim or defense. Defendants cannot even make the far-fetched claim that this information might relate to an equity-based affirmative defense, because (facing a Rule 11 motion) defendants withdrew all such affirmative defenses. (see supra Topics 1, 3 and 6).

B. The Notice's Definition Nos. 1 and 3

Definition No. 1: The term "Plaintiff" refers to the respective plaintiff responding to these requests and where applicable in this context, plaintiffs collectively, and plaintiff's corporate affiliates, predecessors, predecessors of corporate affiliates, representatives, agents, servants, counsel, employees, consultants, and person authorized to act, acting, or purporting to act on its behalf.

Definition No. 3: The term "MPAA" refers to the Motion Picture Association of America and where applicable in this context, its corporate affiliates, predecessors, predecessors of corporate affiliates, representatives, agents, servants, counsel, employees, consultants, and person authorized to act, acting, or purporting to act on its behalf.

These definitions are overbroad and outside the scope permitted in a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition. Rule 30(b)(6) permits deposition of "a public or private corporation," and imposes obligations only on "the organization so named" to provide a deponent to testify "as to matters known or reasonably available to the organization." Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6). An organizational deponent can be asked to testify only regarding information "reasonably available" to the organization being deposed. In re Ski Train Fire of Nov. 11, 2000 Kaprun Austria, No. MDL 1428, 2006 WL 1328259, at *9 (S.D.N.Y. May 16, 2006). The rule does not permit a single notice to one corporation to obligate the witness to provide testimony on behalf of "plaintiffs collectively," all affiliates (including parents and foreign affiliates), predecessors, predecessors of affiliates, and consultants. That is 1 especially so here, where some plaintiffs are multinational conglomerates with 2 unrelated affiliates all over the world. If defendants wished to depose these entities, 3 which are not parties here, they should have served a Rule 45 subpoena. 4 Accordingly, a protective order should issue limiting the definition of 5 "Plaintiff" to the named party in suit, and limiting the definition of "MPAA" to the 6 Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. 7 CONCLUSION 8 Defendants have not identified any credible basis to distinguish the existing 9 precedents on these very issues decided in the Bunnell Litigation. Nonetheless, 10 defendants required the filing of this application. Defendants' positions on the Rule 11 30(b)(6) topics cannot be deemed to be "substantially justified" under any theory. 12 Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c), 37(a)(4) (award of fees shall be made unless the opposing 13 party is "substantially justified"); Green v. Baca, 225 F.R.D. 612, 614-15 (C.D. Cal. 14 2005). 15 For the foregoing reasons, a protective order in the form of the proposed order 16 should be granted, and plaintiffs and the MPAA should be awarded their costs and 17 reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in making this application. 18 Dated: August 1, 2007 Respectfully submitted, 19 JENNER & BLOCK-LLP 20 21 Steven B.
